

Login

The login screen is showed whenever a valid user token is missing.

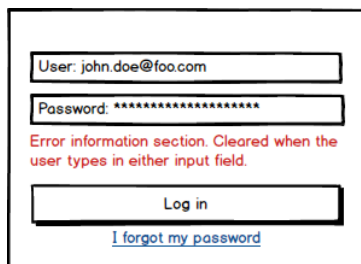

UI

The login-button is disabled until both inputs contain text.

The forgot-password-link is disabled until the user-input contains text.

Error and information messages are shown in the middle section of the login form:

Any text here is cleared when the user types in either input field. A failed login will show the error text in red. Clicking the "I forgot my password"-link will show the information text in black.
